Health Professions Summer Program

Join us on the UBC campus for an interactive summer program!

"The program exposed me to a variety of health professions, including one I had never even heard of before through panels, interactions with faculty, students, and admissions staff, and fun activities."

This summer program is designed to help equity deserving high school & undergraduate students develop sustained interest in a health profession education program of their choice. Equity deserving groups include, but are not limited to, people who identify as first-generation university students, Disabled, Indigenous, racialized, economically disadvantaged, and 2SLGBTQIAP+.

Participate in this program and:

Meet Practitioners and students from the health professions and engage in mentorship & connection opportunities.

Familiarize yourself with the offered health professions programs at UBC, including Dentistry, Occupational Therapy, Pharmacy, and Physical Therapy

Learn about the admissions process, scholarship & funding info, and more.

Visit research, clinical, and teaching sites the UBC health profession programs.

"I... appreciated the conversations that were initiated about what justice, diversity, equity, and inclusion currently looks like in the health professions, and what it could look like in the future."
