

D'HOPE PROGRAM

Diversifying Health and Human Service Professions Education

Join us on the UBC Vancouver campus for an interactive summer program!

This summer program is designed to help equity denied youth develop sustained interest in a health profession education program of their choice.

Equity denied groups include, but are not limited to, people who identify as Disabled, first in your family/community to attend post-secondary, Indigenous, racialized, living in rural/remote communities, economically disadvantaged, and 2SLGBTQIAP+.

"The program exposed me to a variety of health professions, including one I had never even heard of before through panels, interactions with faculty, students, and admissions staff, and fun activities."

AUGUST 12-
2024

Application Deadline:
May 19

"I appreciated the conversations that were initiated about what justice, diversity, equity, and inclusion currently looks like in the health professions, and what it could look like in the future."

PARTICIPATE IN THIS PROGRAM AND:

- Meet Practitioners and students from the health professions and engage in mentorship & connection opportunities
- Familiarize yourself with the offered health professions programs at UBC, including Medicine, Occupational Therapy, Pharmacy, and Physical Therapy
- Learn about the admissions process, scholarship & funding info, and more
- Visit research, clinical, and teaching sites the UBC health profession programs.
